Subject: FW: You're invited to tour BART's Fleet of the Future train car model
D'ya think this is a mocked up bart car, or something like what we sat in last year?

The riders spoke and BART listened when designing the new Fleet of the Future train cars. Now the public is invited to experience what the new fleet will look and feel like during an unprecedented outreach effort with 10 events held all over the Bay Area between April 16th and May 9th. The public will get to walk through the model train car and provide feedback on the new modern features. This tour is the final review of the train car design before manufacturing and testing begin.
