Michelle,

We have found the right person, thanks to [Redacted], and it's [Redacted]. She's a residential EE expert in our Customer Energy Solutions group.

Trouble is, that team is off-site today at a training event. [Reda] will try to call you tomorrow morning if that works for you?

Good luck with this – it's a page out of Catch-22.

Thanks

Laura

Laura- I have a question related to energy usage for small mini-fridges. We are trying to make the purchase of some large fridges for our new break rooms to replace all the small personal fridges that folks throughout the building have. I'd like to make a cost savings argument to State Controller's Office, so I'm looking for usage stats for the old stock. Could you hook me up with the right person to help with this research? I'm copying Brenda Cochran, my Chief of Management Services who will be working on our analysis. Apparently state rules do not permit the state to pay for a refrigerator, employees should instead pay for them on their own. Ridiculous. So we are working on trying to get an exception!

Thanks.
