Absolutely love that route. I have done a version of that every year for past few years. Usually start in Civic Center, though, and ride out to ocean beach. But you're route skips Daly City, which is a good thing. But you're route goes up Trousedale. That hill is a f'n bitch. When I used to do my commute to SF from SJ, when I felt crummy I'd stop in Millbrae and take Trousedale down ... I didn't even like going down that hill. It's like Moser.

You're route through Coyote hills is awesome, too. It took me forever to figure out that it was possible to do that.

Finishing on the Levee's is super fun. San Francisco looks so far away from the Dumbo, then a short while later, you're there! The headwind up the levees can be tough tho – you going to have a group you can work with? Pacelining on the levees makes me feel like a bad-ass flandrian.

100% approval! I think you're going to make it, and will be grinning the whole time.
