Redacted and Jim will get a schedule back to you early next week – shall we assume you are available all days (except July 4!) over the next two weeks?

Laura and Redacted

I understand the request for holding meetings in the next two weeks will be challenging. Unfortunately, I am expected to have a product ready by July 19 to be mailed to the parties in the proceeding.

I think a couple other people on my team may join in, but I will be the primary person.

Steve

Sure! We look forward to getting meetings set up and supporting your review in any way possible.

Redacted is the case manager and she will work with the team to identify a recommended series of discussions and get them scheduled.

The next two weeks may be a bit challenging with the upcoming July 4 holiday, but we'll work hard to accommodate.

Will it be only you or do you expect others on your team will be attending these sessions?

Subject: request for meetings concerning GT&S GRC risk-based decision making process

Laura:

As you may be aware, SED has been tasked by the presiding judge to prepare a report on PG&E's GT&S GRC filing. One major portion of the report will be to examine, as stated in the GT&S GRC proceeding scoping memo, "the risk assessment approach that PG&E employs in this application. This risk assessment approach is part of the basis upon which PG&E developed its costs for this proceeding."

I have just been delegated the responsibility to prepare the evaluation of the risk assessment approach portion of the report and will need to gather information on the risk methodology from PG&E within the next couple of weeks. I've attended several meetings with PG&E representatives where high level presentations of the risk methodologies were presented. I would like to get below the high level presentations and drill down into the details in order to fully understand how risk-based decision making was incorporated into the current GT&S GRC.

I envision a series of meetings with PG&E within the next 2 weeks to accomplish this task. I do not object to having overlaps and repetitions of materials that have been previously presented in the meetings I attended if they can reinforce my understanding. Could you please get the ball rolling on this request?
