Summary: On August 27, 1997, Nettie Hoge, Executive Director for The Utility Reform Network (TURN) met with Cmmr. Neeper, in San Francisco. Also present were: David Gamson, advisor to Cmmr. Neeper; Robert Finkelstein, attorney for TURN; and Harry Snyder, Senior Attorney for Consumers Union. No written materials were used. Hoge stated that in TURN's view, it is a bad idea for consumers to incur long-term debt in order to achieve short-term benefits. Hoge further stated TURN's dissatisfaction with the Legislature's failure to address the fundamental problems with the bond financing transaction during the deliberations on SB 477. Hoge stated that TURN has heard rumors that Senator Steve Peace was interested in preventing the disclosure of the Fixed Transition Amount (FTA) as a separate line item on consumers' bills in order to avoid having to explain why the FTA exceeded the amount of financed rate reduction. Finkelstein stated that under AB 1890, each interest group received significant direct benefits, except for small consumers. Finkelstein stated that the utilities received benefits tailored to their wishes, while small consumers received a "no less than 10% rate reduction" which has been replaced in the draft decision by "no more than whatever amount can be financed, up to 10%" rate reduction. Finkelstein further stated TURN's position that the draft decision reflects a misreading of the statute and of the Commission's decisions implementing the statute.
