Summary: On January, 28, 1998, Peter Casciato Attorney for Time Warner Connect met with Comms. Bilas and Neeper at the Commissions San Francisco's office. Also present were Commissions Advisors Lester Wong and Fassil Fanikile. A copy of a handout (attached to notice) was provided to all the participants at the meeting. Mr. Casciato stated that the Commission should allow for the resale of Pacific Bell voice mail, particularly on a residential basis, stressing that resale of Pacific's product was the only economically viable alternative for a small to mid-size reseller. He noted that allowing PBIS to resale to a CLC customer was not a viable alternative in that it would relegate a CLC to second class status and require more than one customer service activation, contact and billing point.
