6/4/99 A98-11-024 Pacific Bell , for arbitration of an interconnection agreement with Pac-West Telecomm, Inc., pursuant to section 256(b) of the Telecommunications Act of 1996

Summary: On June 1, 1999 Pacific Bell ("PacBell") initiated consecutive ex parte meetings at CPUC with (1) Commissioner Neepor, and (2) Commission President Bilas. PacBell representatives involved were Jim Young and Dan Jacobsen. The content of the oral communications was the same in each meeting. The representatives stated PacBell supports the revised proposed alternate order because it does not allow other CLEC's to "MFN" into a renewed reciprocal compensation agreement. While the original alternate proposed order was the correct resolution the PacBell representatives stated, the revised alternate should lead to a timely general proceeding. No written materials were used in either meeting.

Summary: On June 1, 1999 Pacific Bell ("PacBell") initiated a meeting at CPUC with Tim Sullivan, advisor to Commissioner Duque. PacBell representatives involved were David Discher and Dan Jacobsen. The content of the oral communications was the same in each meeting. The representatives stated PacBell supports the revised proposed alternate order because it does not allow other CLEC's to "MFN" into a renewed reciprocal compensation agreement. While the original alternate proposed order was the correct resolution the PacBell representatives stated, the revised alternate should lead to a timely general proceeding. . A five (5) page written ex parte handout was also distributed to the PUC official, with some pages containing flow charts, diagrams, and cost figures. One of the pages was entitled "The Commission should not be misled by Pac-West's claim that they cannot serve ICP's without reciprocal compensation from Pacific Bell." Another: "Pac-West can recover its costs from ISP's." One entry states "Many CLEC's serve ISP's but do not receive reciprocal compensation from Pacific Bell," followed by the names of eight (8) CLEC's that reportedly have "bill and keep" agreements with PacBell.

Summary: On June 2, 1999, NEXTLINK California, Inc. ("Nextlink"), ICG Telecom Group, Inc. ("ICG"), and MediaOne Telecommunications of California, Inc. ("MediaOne") jointly initiated an ex parte meeting at CPUC with Commissioner Neeper. Principals involved were Karen M. Potkul of Nextlink, Karen Notsund of ICG, and Theresa Cabral of MediaOne. Ms Potkul said the parties understood the 5/21/99 Assigned Commissioner's Ruling to prohibit the parties' legal and/or regulatory personnel from attending the upcoming workshop that will address Pacific's Operations support System ("OSS") test plan. This ruling will prohibit Nextlink, ICG, and MediaOne from attending, she said, because their subject matter experts would not attend the entire workshop. Ms Cabral said MediaOne would have to send a regulatory representative because the Southwestern Bell meetings conflicted with the workshop schedule. Ms Notsund said the performance measures workshops provided an appropriate model for conducting the OSS test plan where both experts and legal/regulatory personnel were allowed to attend.

Summary: On June 2, 1999 Pac-West Telecomm, Inc. ("PacWest") representatives initiated a telephone conversation with Commission President Bilas. PacWest representatives involved were Wally Griffin, CEO of PacWest, and attorneys James Tobin and Mary Wand. PacWest made the following points. The Final Arbitrator's Report should be supported. The revised Neeper alternate failed to resolve the major issues in the arbitration, and was thus not a workable option. PacWest and Pacific Bell had worked with the arbitrator to solve the implementation problems of the Neeper alternative, but they were unable to do so. The alternate could not resolve the issue of local traffic, neither its definition nor compensation structure. The parties deserve a decision from the Commission, and not a refusal to act, a situation which would create uncertainty for PacWest's business. The representation that the Neeper alternate "maintains the status quo" is true only if current PUC decisions and policy are ignored. The Neeper alternate only maintains the current relationship between PacWest and Pacific Bell which consists of ongoing litigation, and thus the situation would be compounded.

The result is that it is impossible to know whether and how much compensation is owed to whom. The parties deserve a decision from the Commission, and not a refusal to act, a situation which would create uncertainty for PacWest's business.

Summary: On June 2, 1999, ICG Telecom Group, Inc. ("ICG") placed three (3) ex parte telephone calls to PUC advisors. ICG's Nick Selby placed the calls to Lester Wong, Tim Sullivan, and Fassil Fenikile, advisors to Commission President Bilas, Commissioner Duque, and Commissioner Neeper respectively. The content of the communication was the same in each instance as follows. The commission should adopt item "5" on the 6/3/99 Commission agenda. Many parties, both inside and outside California, were awaiting the results on whether PUC intended to change the underlying economic relationships concerning the growth of the Internet. Adoption of Commissioner Neeper's revised proposed alternate order would leave three (3) key issues unresolved, thus creating uncertainty for ISP's, CLEC's, and potential investors in Internet related businesses..

Summary: On June 2, 1999 AT&T Communications of California, Inc. ("AT&T") responded to a telephone call from Timothy Sullivan, advisor to Commissioner Duque. The recipient of the call, Bob Kargoll, indicated AT&T hoped the Commission would continue its policy of treating traffic to ISP's as local for inter-carrier compensation purposes. PUC policy should not be altered, Mr. Kargoll said, until the Federal Communications Commission concludes its proceeding addressing this issue.
