Summary: On November 29, 1999, Robert Finkelstein, Staff Attorney for The Utility Reform Network (TURN), met with Cmmr. Wood, in San Francisco. Also present was Linda Serizawa and Kevin Coughlan, advisors to Cmmr. Wood. Finkelstein stated that TURN supports the adoption of the Proposed Decision (PD). Finkelstein noted that it provides Pacific Gas and Electric Company (PG&E) with increases of nearly 10% for electric revenues, and 8% for gas. Finkelstein noted that it makes more sense to approve the funds necessary to provide adequate service and reliability levels, and let those customers who need better service take steps to obtain it, than it does to approve the hundreds of millions of dollars more than PG&E seeks to provide higher levels of reliability and service to all customers. Finkelstein pointed out that such an outcome is not only consistent with the Commission’s ongoing desire to promote customer choice, but would be a choice that provides real benefits to small consumers by not requiring them to pay for services they have not chosen and may not receive. Finkelstein discussed PG&E’s threat to lay-off 3500 workers critical to safe and reliable service if the PD is adopted. Finkelstein concluded that TURN does not believe that adoption of the PD is the first step down the path to a two-tiered level of service in the future.

Summary: On November 29, 1999, Michael B. Day, Attorney for Enron Corp. (Enron), had an equal time meeting with Cmmr. Bilas, Dorothy Duda, Julie Halligan, and Ann Watson, advisors to Cmmr. Bilas; Cmmr. Wood, Kevin Coughlan and Linda Serizawa, advisors to Cmmr. Wood, in two separate meetings in San Francisco. Also present in both meetings were Jeanne Bennett, Mona Petrochko, for Enron Petrochko relayed Enron’s support for the Proposed Decision (PD). Petrochko explained that in the areas of electric operation and maintenance and electric capital additions – two areas which impact on the safety and reliability of the electric distribution system, the PD granted Pacific Gas and Electric Company (PG&E) the majority of its request. In addition, during the meeting with Cmmr. Bilas, Day emphasized the importance of the Commission’s staying with its practice of adopting average year expense estimates as the basis for the utility’s revenue requirement, rather than relying on the aberrations of certain years. Other areas, Day discussed during the meeting with Cmmr. Wood were the record evidence showing that PG&E was a less than efficient utility and the fact that PG&E claims of wide spread layoffs if the PD is approved were not substantiated by the record.
