RESOLUTION E-3093. SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA EDISON COMPANY (EDISON) AUTHORIZATION TO MODIFY AN AGREEMENT BETWEEN ROCKWELL INTERNATIONAL (ROCKWELL) AND EDISON. ADVICE LETTER NO. 784-E, FILED APRIL 11, 1988.

SUMMARY

Southern California Edison Company (Edison) requests modification of an Agreement executed June 11, 1987, between Rockwell International (Rockwell) and Edison to permit Rockwell to transfer from Interruptible Schedule No. I-2, to Interruptible Schedule No. I-5. The modification will allow Rockwell to transfer its critical load from Edison's system to Rockwell's emergency generator and back again to Edison's system when Edison calls for a period of interruption. This resolution grants the request.

DISCUSSION

1. By Advice Letter No. 784-E, filed April 11, 1988, Edison requests authorization to modify an original Agreement executed March 6, 1984, between Edison and Rockwell and authorized by Commission Resolution No. E-2026, dated February 6, 1985. The purpose of the original Agreement was to permit Rockwell to momentarily operate its emergency generator in parallel with Edison's electric system for the sole purpose of transferring Rockwell's critical load from Edison's system to Rockwell's emergency generator and back again to Edison's system, when Edison called for a period of interruption in accordance with Edison's Schedule No. I-2.

2. The modification reflects the fact that Edison has agreed to permit Rockwell to transfer from interruptible Schedule No. I-2, to interruptible Schedule No. I-5. In permitting this change, none of the terms and conditions of the original Agreement with respect to operating the generator momentarily in parallel with the Edison electrical system have been modified. Also, by permitting Rockwell to change interruptible schedules, the interruptible capability and the amount of interruptible load established under Schedule No. I-2 is not diminished.
